Personal data

Under the EU's General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) personal data is defined as: "any information relating to an identified or identifiable natural person ('data subject'); an identifiable natural person is one who can be identified, directly or indirectly, in particular by reference to an identifier such as a name, an identification number, location data, an online identifier or to one or more factors specific to the physical, physiological, genetic, mental, economic, cultural or social identity of that natural person".

How we use your information

This privacy notice tells you how we, the DISCOVERER consortium, will collect and use your personal data.

Why does DISCOVERER need to collect and store personal data?

In order for us to register you for the 1st International Symposium on Very Low Earth Orbit Missions and Technologies, process the submitted abstracts, and plan the number of participants, we need to collect personal data. In any event, we are committed to ensuring that the information we collect and use is appropriate for this purpose, and does not constitute an invasion of your privacy.

Will DISCOVERER share my personal data with anyone else?

We will not share your information with anyone.

How will DISCOVERER use the personal data it collects about me?

We will strictly use your data for conference preparation purposes only.

Under what circumstances will DISCOVERER contact me?

We will contact you by email if your abstract was selected and to remind you about the conference.

How long will my data be stored?

We will delete your data directly after the conference.

Can I find out the personal data that DISCOVERER holds about me?

We will hold only the information which you have provided to us through the Conference Registration /Submission Form.

Consent

By consenting to this privacy notice you are giving us permission to process your personal data specifically for the purposes identified. Consent is required for the DISCOVERER consortium to process personal data, but it must be explicitly given. Where we are asking you for sensitive personal data we will always tell you why and how the information will be used. You may withdraw consent at any time by sending an email to contact@discoverer.space to unsubscribe from any further communications.
